THE CHURCH UP CLOSE

9TH ENGLISH EDITION

Covering Catholicism in the Age of Francis

SEPTEMBER 9-14, 2024

WHAT

Religion news occupies an increasingly important place in today's journalism, and many media professionals are seeking keys to unlock a complex institution that sparks enormous public interest: the Catholic Church.

Building on its successful monthly seminars for Rome-based Vatican correspondents, the Pontifical University of the Holy Cross in Rome once again offers The Church Up Close, a one-week seminar in English for journalists who cover the Vatican from afar.

Combining conferences, workshops, personal encounters, and on-site visits, the seminar is designed to give journalists an array of tools to enhance the quality of their coverage of today's Roman Catholic Church. Here is what participants receive:

- A basic sense of the lay of the land at the Vatican;
- A serious, in-depth analysis of specific hot-button issues;
- A taste of the rich complex history and culture that lies behind contemporary Church affairs;
- A personal introduction to some of the key players in Rome;

- A chance to reflect, in an ideal setting, with journalists from around the world, on the fascinating relationships between religion and the media.

FOR WHOM

Designed with journalists in mind, the program is also an ideal orientation for new staff at an Embassy to the Holy See. Members of the diplomatic corps are most welcome.

Previous seminars were attended by journalists from media outlets such as, among others, The New York Times, Fox News, NBC, The Wall Street Journal, Religion Unplugged, and USA Today (USA), The Guardian, The Times, The Daily Telegraph, The Financial Times and BBC (UK), The Record (Australia), The Southern Cross (South Africa), CBC and The National Post (Canada), El Universal (Venezuela), Neue Zürcher Zeitung (Switzerland), O Clarim (Macau), The Mainichi Shimbun (Japan), Agencia EFE (Spain) and Radio Renascença (Portugal), Družina (Slovenia).

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Conferences: Conference sessions deal with issues of culture and religion (inter-religious dialogue, marriage laws, science and faith, bioethics), the Church and the media (public opinion, Vatican coverage, transparency) and the nature and structure of the Holy See (its organization, and role in international politics).

Encounters: Personal encounters create a unique opportunity for journalists to experience the Church up close. Participants have the chance to meet with key curial officials and leaders from pontifical councils and congregations to expert analysts loaded with a wealth of experience in Church communication and Vatican journalism.

On-site Visits: This crash course on the Church in Rome will include visits to St. Peter's Basilica and the Sistine Chapel, the Historic Center of Rome, as well as visits to the headquarters of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta, the Vatican Observatory, and the Barracks of the Pontifical Swiss Guard.
